Bedbugs are secretive and are able to hide in small cracks and crevices. With your help in preparing for treatment we can have access to these critical hiding places.

Bedbugs can survive for up to one year between blood meals from the host. It is very important to continue watching for them and to maintain excellent housekeeping so that the bedbugs are under control. Please continue to vacuum the carpets and bedding as often as you can. After two weeks, please notify your property manager if you continue to have a bedbug problem.
